OUR DEDICATION . . .

We the Annual Staff dedicate the 1983-84 edition of the ROAR to Harriet Mann. for her 21 years of loyal service as high school secretary, and the many extra hours spent in service to the students and faculty of Jackson Center High School.

Harriett Mann

OH WHAT A FEELING . . .

*to be a Jackson
Center Student!*

Climb into the school bus. Wipe the frost from the window. Lurch forward as the bus bumps on its way. Jump down to the pavement. Push the heavy school door open. (What a feeling.)

Crowded hallways funnel fearful freshmen along the same course as confident upperclassmen. Turn the dial on the combination, and lift the handle to the locker.

Deposit books.

Retrieve same.

Enter class and sit straight in chairs that wrap rigid desks around their temporary captives.

How many minutes until lunch? Are you taking off for spelling? When is this class over? What was the assignment? What did he say? Hey, I really can do this!

Interest, curiosity, embarrassment, boredom, hunger, sleepiness, worry, friendship, rejection, achievement, fear, confidence.

What a feeling!

Leap up at 2:45. Cold metal screeches.

Deposit books.

Retrieve same.

Dash to meetings and practice.

On your mark, set, go! Louder, no one will hear those lines in the back row! Is your science fair project supposed to feel like Jell-O? Does the popcorn popper feel too hot? Reach up and tape this to the wall for me. Let's hear you, trumpets! Put on your sweats before you go outside! I don't have enough breath for that last note. One the line!

Winning, losing. Running, hurdling. Counting, marching. Waiting, trying. Laughing, learning, living.

Oh, what a feeling!

DAYS AND NIGHTS

the Tigers!*

*... a day in the life of Jackson
Center High School*

Early morning brings J.V.S. students waiting for their bus, Mr. Lacher supervising detention, and Shelly Sosby and David Schindel making morning announcements.

MORNING . . .

Pre-School activity begins our day!

Jackson Center High School's morning activities begin early in the day, with school buses unloading, bus drivers reporting in to the office, students waiting in the halls for the first bell to ring, and the cooks beginning their preparations for lunch.

MORNING

Morning finds Jackson Center students in a variety of places. In the office we discover Mr. Hunter writing tardy excuses and a student beginning the day in the "box"!

We find two students being "married" during a mock wedding in the Family Living class and spirit signs being painted by a cheerleader on the stage in the old gym.

In the Athletic Complex, Bruce Teeters guides Homecoming attendants through a practice session, while the band prepares for its annual show. While all this activity occurs, an elementary student studies industriously!

The Jackson Center School is a busy place in the morning. Junior High students study in math and reading; sophomores paint signs; art students work on "creations" and the band and flag corps rehearse for the Homecoming show.

Lunch activities are varied at Jackson Center High School. Students enjoy visiting both in the cafeteria and in the old gym following lunch.

One very special lunchtime activity is voting for the Homecoming King and Queen.

LUNCH

AFTERNOON

We have many and varied activities in the afternoon in the Jackson Center Schools. We will especially remember the hours spent practicing in choir, and the choir marching through the halls singing the J. C. Fight Song! How can we forget the teacher pep rally when the faculty "got even" with the cheerleaders?

AFTERNOON

Our elementary first graders entertained during Right-To-Read Week while Mr. Lewis danced as the "Big, Bad, Wolf"!

Our own Mr. T, Mr. Thogmartin, led the faculty in their revenge maneuvers against the cheerleaders the "J.C." Team vs. the "A" Team pep rally!

The freshmen practiced their C.P.R. skills on "Resusci Annie" in the old gym, while in the office, Michele Sprague did secretarial duty.

As the school day came to an end, Mr. Hunter gave the afternoon announcements, "Being Friday . . .!"

Our roving photographer caught many after school and weekend activities — juniors decorating for prom and students being congratulated by Dr. Klenke during the Jackson Center Science Fair.

Sophomore Missy Swaney was caught relaxing in the concessions area, while Mr. Oehlers directed the Jackson Center High School Band during the Homecoming festivities.

AFTER SCHOOL, EVENINGS, WEEKENDS

EVENING

"Where's the beef?" — the beef could be found in Jackson Center at the girls' basketball games!

Everyone had a good time at the basketball games this year and many people were involved in many activities — cake raffles, concessions, coat check and in addition we had the good luck to be supporting two, great winning teams!

*"Oh what a feeling" to be a Jackson Center Tiger!
Oh what a feeling" to be a Tiger Fan!*

EVENING

Jackson Center High School evening activities found juniors and seniors rehearsing for the play relaxing backstage.

Some injured players were wishing they could get into the game.

Three senior boys were catching up on the latest "gossip" while Paul Kindle was waiting for Homecoming activities to begin.

The Homecoming Dance was a lively affair which lived up to it's name "Let's Dance!"

Everyone had a good time fast and slow dancing, and at times, just relaxing!

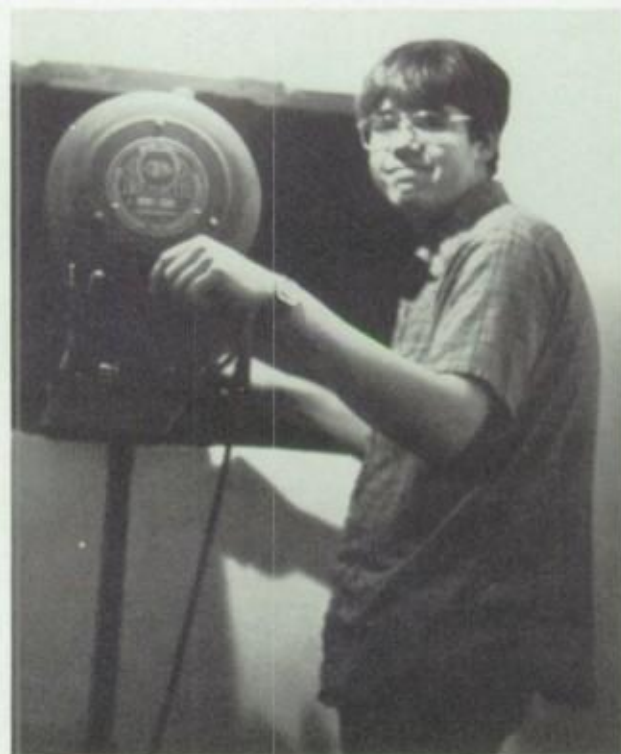

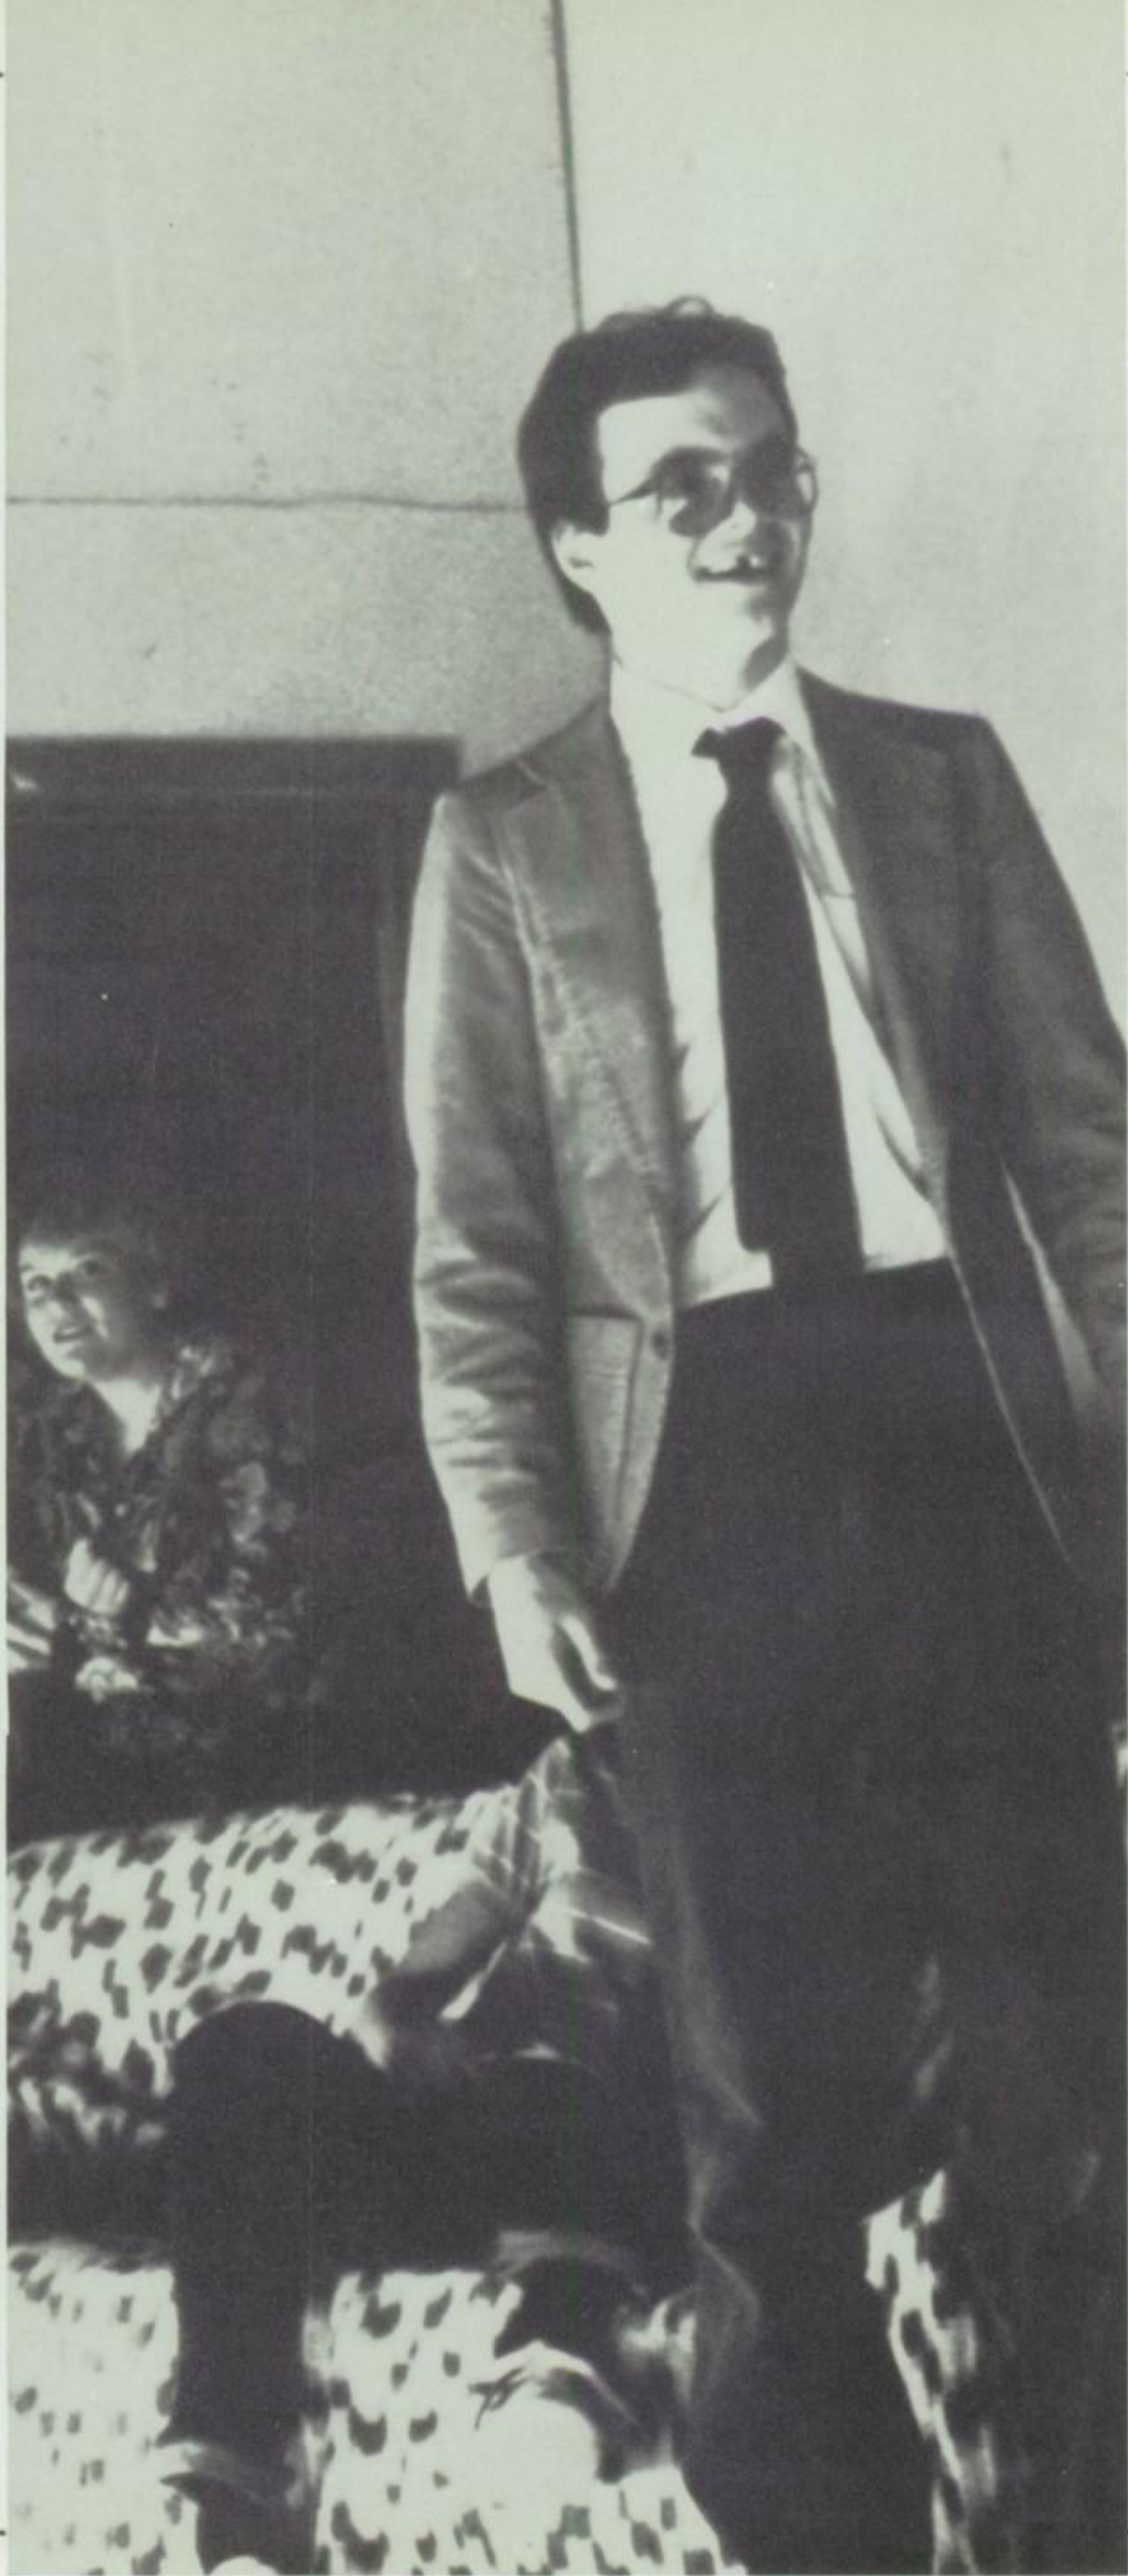

EVENING

Evenings found us in many creative pursuits: elementary students became Smurfs, Muppet Monsters and Disney characters; Juniors and Seniors entertained us with "Deadly Ernest," the Junior-Senior play; we went to the prom; and Coach John Barr spoke during the annual athletic awards banquet.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Jackson Center Tigers had a "great season" according to 3rd year coach John Hanson. Bringing home a (17-3) record and the district runner-up trophy capped off one of the best seasons for girls' basketball since the mid 70's. Certainly, this was the "Year of the Tiger" for the girls' program in basketball at Jackson Center High School!

RESERVE SQUAD: Kim Swank, Deb Shank, Missy Swaney, Sheila Heintz, Sharon Martin, Kim Britt, Jamie Williams, Dawn Klopfenstein, Amy Swank, Mr. Ware.
